Last fall, Dr. Gail Burnaford spent a month in Israel and the West Bank on a study tour. She heard 37 speakers with different perspectives, visited cities, countless small villages, and towns from Jenin in the northern West Bank to Sderot in southern Israel. She will present on the issues regarding the occupation, not as an expert in political science and Middle East history, but rather as an educator and citizen, using photographs, short videos, and facts on the ground resource material gathered during her trip. Her talk will be followed by shared insights, questions and discussion.
